

Gatineau Park and Hills

Gatineau Park

Gatineau Park is a wedge of land measuring 361 square kilometers to the northwest of Canada's Capital Region. In the Park, the NCC protects plants and animals and manages facilities and trails so that the public may enjoy outdoor activities in every season. Gatineau Park is a superb nature reserve just 15 minutes from Parliament Hill.

The Park is endowed with hundreds of kilometers of trails, forests containing more than fifty species of trees, abundant wildlife and numerous crystal-clear lakes typical of the hills of the Canadian Shield. Summer and winter, visitors can participate in outdoor activities or simply enjoy the tranquility of a protected natural environment.
